

Machine Shorthand

Machine shorthand writers press multiple keys down at the same time to form syllables, words, or even entire phrases in a single downward stroke. “Missing” letters are formed by combining other letters together. For instance, there is no “n” on the initial side of the keyboard. TPH is pressed together to represent the letter N at the beginning of a syllable, word, or phrase.

Careers

Official Court Reporter Works in a courtroom, writing down everything that is said.	Reporters help people remember exactly what was said.	Freelance Court Reporter Writes what is said in pre-trial depositions and meetings.
Captioner Closed Captioner for TV High-level realtime skills are used to produce captions of live news, sports, and other events.	Off-site Captioner Caption radio broadcasts, stadium commentaries, meetings, or any other type of communication. They can be broadcast over handheld devices or displayed on screens at the event.	CART Captioner Realtime Services for Deaf and Hard-of-hearing Provided in the classroom or remotely.